【Job Responsibilities】
Third Bridge is a leading global research firm established in 2007, with a team of over 1,500 employees worldwide dedicated to fueling decisions with expert insights. We accelerate and enhance decision-making for investors and business leaders by unearthing unique expert insights across multiple sectors, geographies, and topics.

For nearly 20 years, we've helped clients access knowledge on demand from experts, in-person and through our Library covering over 65,000 companies.

Third Bridge's Library division delivers investment research to its global institutional investor client base, including managers investing across listed equities, fixed income, private equity, real assets, and other alternatives.
The Sector Analyst team within the Library division is responsible for uncovering actionable insights through in-depth conversations with senior executives and industry specialists, driving sector and regional coverage strategy, and engaging with clients to showcase the value of our research.

We are looking for a consumer and/or TMT analyst to join our growing team in Tokyo.

In this role you will

- Produce in-depth research coverage on the consumer and/or TMT sector in Japan, with additional ad-hoc coverage on relevant private market transactions;

- Drive discussions with industry specialists, extracting value-added and actionable insight throughout your discussions;
- Engage with clients to present your research and foster relationships. Collaborate with our internal account management and sales teams to broaden your reach and build a brand for yourself;
- Build relationships with senior industry executives across your areas of coverage; do deep-dives on industries/companies, figure out where specialists have non-consensus views, and build out a pipeline of content

- Active market involvement, stay closely connected / on top of financial markets, industry dynamics, and individual stocks – learn how to understand businesses from the perspective of those who actually ran them
- A team-centric work environment, where collaboration is core to what analysts do on a daily basis
- High degree of autonomy, opportunity to take ownership of your coverage, and drive initiatives in a supportive environment
- International exposure, both internally and externally, and the opportunity to build your reputation in the investment community and grow your career over the long-term
