Company Description

Balancing Social Contribution and Business

skyticket, our Company's booking platform, was founded by our CEO, Nakamura (Mr), who backpacked through Southeast Asia during his college days. He saw how the tourism industry became more active and affluent through LCCs, which sparked his idea to improve the world by engaging in businesses that lead to the development of the tourism industry.

As a pioneer in LCC online reservations, we have played a consistent role in the development of the tourism industry by focusing on low prices on a variety of travel products through our skyticket booking platform.

Our goal as a Company extends far beyond this.

By leveraging the knowledge we have gained and expanding into new service areas, we aim to promote tourism around the world, generate employment opportunities from it, thus enriching the lives of people.
From this perspective, we envision our contribution to society.

What values can we contribute to society?
What kinds of impact can we have on society?

As a Company that both contributes to society and engages in business, we aim to continually create businesses that are of even greater benefit to society.
