

Shared Research Latitude Inc.

Company Description

Communicate in English the world understands

Shared Research Latitude goes beyond translating just the words. We create text that truly communicates with your readers. English translated directly from Japanese can have many problems: redundancy, circumlocution, and lack of clarity, to name but a few. But this doesn't have to be the case. We understand the source text and apply our cultural filters to provide translations that truly communicate.

Company profile

Shared Research Latitude evolved when Latitude (specialized in translating investor relations materials) joined forces with the translation team of Shared Research. Shared Research produces insightful analysis on more than 400 listed companies for investors around the world.

From IR to marketing communications

Rely on us to communicate the right nuances to your target audience, whether institutional investors, corporate customers, or individuals.

A translation team focused on English that communicates

Our in-house team applies more than 20 years of experience to recognize what the customer wants to communicate. We dig down to understand the source text and then communicate the message fluidly in English.
