

AXESS

Axess Japan K.K.

Company Description

Axess is one of the internationally leading manufacturers of ticketing and access management systems. With our production facility in Austria and worldwide sales and support locations, we have all the necessary resources to be able to serve our customers to their full satisfaction. Business fields and projects are opening up across ski resorts and destinations, fair and convention centers, stadia and arenas, leisure- and theme parks and touristic transport. In these fields, we offer complete resort solutions, customer registration and customer loyalty programs with social media integration and also numerous standardized interfaces to third-party systems. Individually tailored solutions are developed for individual projects based on proven standard technologies.

We convince with innovative hardware and also the most modern software modules. Starting from our standard system, we offer tailor-made solutions for every area of application.

We customize solutions: Individual solutions for ticketing and access management, software products to integrate own business areas and CRM systems for managing customer data.
