

ALACOM CO.,LTD.

Company Description

In the current information-oriented society, security service organizations like ours are requested to provide higher level of security services than what we used to in the past. Almost all enterprises and institutions are now in their search for effective methods and countermeasures to sustain their securities against possible damages attributable to the terrorists, so-called hackers squirming through the internet webs and other various means of unlawful acts. Everlasting technological developments and changes in social structure, any organization has been forced to consider its sustainability in view of its own security. On the other hand, newly developed equipment and systems are allowing us to select some newer and advanced methods to anticipate better security. Accordingly, our clients have come to the stage of suitable selection of their own security method that could be well fit for their own needs for their line of business. Alacom, nonetheless, strongly believes that advanced security technology is not sufficient enough to expect the security, unless supported with professional and competent security staff. Alacom is proudly able to present our extensive security know-how in various fields, such as class-A hotels, massive office buildings, commercial and shopping arcade and petroleum-related complex along with seaside area, speaking of a few. Again, all of such observance of security has not been materialized without behind-the-scene efforts of silent security staff and they are our irreplaceable property. Alacom, for the purpose to secure valuable safety and relief of our clients, aims to establish a next higher stage of security standards and becoming a excellent company in the security industry observing our motto of T (Think), C(Challenge)and C(Confidence), carrying out persistent studies & efforts on the up-to-date technology and bringing up the talented and skilled personnel to enhance our additional value for our clients.
