Company Description

Let a WorkplaceRevolutionize Workstyles

The time, places, and values diversify significantly in our society today.

We believe working styles that meet modern requirements emerge by casting a fresh eye on the weight “work” has in one’s life. What we need is a new concept space – a “workplace” – which is more than just an office. This is what we at Midas aim to realize, together with people, through our quest for the ideal environment for them to be working in.

Since its inception in 1977, Midas has focused on the strategic importance of a workplace and conducted many experiments. In our endeavor, we take a human-centric approach to create a workplace that empowers people who work there. Our long-standing expertise and the latest ICT tools are indispensable for achieving this.

We continue our endeavor of creating new workplaces as ever-evolving “workstyles” demand settings that always stay ahead of the curve. While we assist clients’ innovative activities through our office design, we also need to pursue our own because, we believe, we can change the common perception about “work” by being a role model.
