

Software Engineering Co.,LTD

Company Description

Since its founding in 1971, Software Engineering (SEC) has been involved in the production of manuals in the IT field, with a focus on language, through technical writing, translation, and language-related staffing.

Today, product instruction manuals (manuals) are undergoing a major change from traditional written explanations to audio, drawings, and videos. As for the products themselves, the number of products that can be operated intuitively without manuals is increasing. Our company is not only a company that handles traditional written words, but also a company that supports a wide range of effective communication, and has continued to improve our technology every day.
