

HAPPO-EN

Company Description

Introducing the world of Japanese beauty and culture

Surrounded by the sea and far distant from the West, Japan developed a highly distinctive culture. Refined artistic sensibilities and utmost consideration for others are well-known Japanese traits that are universally praised and draw attention throughout the world. Happon-en is grounded in all aspects of Japanese culture—traditional gardens, architecture, culinary techniques, art, music and many others—and we want to communicate these to people all over the world.

The garden, with a pond as its centerpiece, is designed for strolling

Happon-en's garden, skillfully incorporating the basic principles of traditional garden landscaping, was carefully composed to reproduce a natural setting. It includes several features of historic importance, such as a display of bonsai trees over 500 years old, and the "Muan" and "Kahoan" teahouses, transported and rebuilt on site, all harmoniously blending to create an oasis of beauty that brings pleasure throughout the year.

Attractive spots around HAPPO-EN

- *Institute for Nature Study of National Museum and Science, which is designated as a national monument and also as a historic landmark.
- *Tokyo Metropolitan Teien Art Museum, which is designated as an important cultural property.
- *Platinum Street is famous for its fantastic lines of ginkgo trees which are changing their color from green to yellow in the fall. Trendy and unique coffee shops and import shops on it are highly enjoyable to experience.
