Job Description

Citigate Dewe Rogerson is one of the most respected names in communications. Globally we combine the expertise of life-long public relations consultants with former bankers, fund managers, investor relations officers and journalists to offer a network of creative communications professionals and transaction specialists across major financial centres.

Since 1969 we have served the world’s largest listed companies, new start-ups, governments, industry bodies and other organisations, wherever clear and persuasive communication will make a difference.

We have operated in Asia Pacific since 1988 and now have over 70 people in Hong Kong, Singapore, Beijing, Shanghai, Guangzhou, Taipei and Tokyo fluently communicating in both the local language and English. One of the most important aspects of our service is that we operate under one single regional P&L so can offer all our clients one team across the seven markets, giving them flexibility and consistency in their communications. Our strong network of affiliates ensures that we can also support clients in all other markets in the region.
