Job Description

COMPANY OVERVIEW

Our client is a well-established global manufacturer specialising in precision technology and advanced electronics solutions. With a strong legacy of engineering excellence and innovation, the organisation supports a wide portfolio of high-performance products across international markets, working closely with distributors and service partners to deliver reliable after-sales support and continuous product improvement.

JOB RESPONSIBILITIES

- Provide technical assistance and diagnostics support, including delivering product and service training to distributors and authorised service partners.
- Manage technical, warranty, spare parts, and service-related enquiries or complaints from end users, distributors, dealers, and e-commerce channels.

- Assess in-warranty claims and prepare documentation such as fault cost (F-Cost) reports for submission and approval.
- Track and analyse product quality issues or abnormal defects, generate technical reports, and coordinate corrective and preventive actions with factories, warehouses, and external partners.
- Develop and maintain service-related documentation, including training materials, service manuals, repair guidelines, and spare parts references.
- Oversee defective unit exchange processes, working with contractors on repair follow-ups, inspection, grading of returned units, and coordination prior to warehouse return.
- Handle regulatory requirements such as COC renewals and manage COC and WELS testing and registration for new product introductions.
- Support field testing, pilot runs, and technical evaluations for new product launches in collaboration with distributors.
- Contribute to the establishment, optimisation, and continuous improvement of service operations and service centres across local and export markets.

JOB REQUIREMENTS

- Diploma or higher qualification in Engineering or a related technical field.
- At least 2 years of relevant experience in after-sales service, technical support, or service operations within the consumer electronics or related industry.
- Solid technical understanding of home appliances, precision equipment, or audio-visual products.
- Strong analytical and troubleshooting skills with a hands-on approach to technical problem-solving.
- Proficient in Microsoft Office applications and experienced in preparing technical and service documentation.
- Able to work independently while communicating effectively with internal teams, manufacturing plants, distributors, and external service partners.
