Job Description

We are looking for A hands-on IT Project Manager who thrives in structured, detail-oriented environments and can lead system development projects for Japanese and Japanese-affiliated companies. You will take full ownership of project execution, working closely with overseas vendors and internal stakeholders, with English as the primary working language.

Responsibilities:

- Lead end-to-end system development projects using Waterfall methodology (scope, schedule, cost, quality).
- Manage project execution hands-on: planning, tracking progress, and resolving issues.
- Conduct and lead project meetings in English with vendors and internal teams.
- Coordinate closely with Japanese-managed teams to align expectations and deliverables.
- Prepare and maintain structured project documentation and status reports in English.

Qualifications:

- 7–12 years of experience in system development, including hands-on project management,
- Proven experience working with overseas software vendors.
- Strong English communication skills, able to independently run meetings.
- Excellent documentation skills with high attention to detail and structure.
- Experience working with Japanese or Japanese-affiliated organizations.
