Job Description

Job Title: Director/VP, Technology & Architecture

Location: Singapore

About Us:

The client is a leading life science technology company. As part of their continuous growth, they are looking for a Technology & Architecture leader to steer their evolution from a hardware-led product company into a software-and-AI-enabled platform business.

Key Responsibilities:

- Define problems and system logic, laying out challenges clearly for stakeholders.
- Own architecture discipline across hardware, firmware, software, cloud, and AI layers.

- Apply software development principles to hardware interfaces, making complex instrumentation feel simple and intuitive for end-users.
- Lead the architecture and delivery of the next-generation software platform, integrating AI capabilities into unified, workflow-level user experiences.
- Work closely with R&D, Engineering, Applications, Product, and Commercial teams to align architecture with constraints and commercial priorities.

Qualifications:

- More than 10 years of experience in systems architecture, platform engineering, or related disciplines.
- A genuine problem-first thinker: comfortable defining and structuring ambiguous challenges before reaching for a solution, rather than defaulting to familiar fixes.
- Experience building consumer-facing or non-expert-facing interfaces for complex technical products.
