Job Description

Job Title: Director, Industrial Biotechnology

Location: Singapore

About Us:

The client is a leading research and technology organization in Singapore. As part of a national strategic initiative to position Singapore as a global hub for sustainable innovation, we are seeking a director to lead the Innovation Office.

Key Responsibilities:

- Develop and execute the national R&D roadmap in alignment with long-term economic goals.
- Serve as the primary authority for fund administration, including designing selection criteria, evaluating scientific proposals, and tracking post-funding milestones.

- Act as a high-level diplomat between government agencies, global industry players (MNCs), and the academic research community.
- Drive the commercialization of research outputs through technology transfer, licensing, and the creation of spin-offs.
- Maintain a high level of scientific credibility to engage meaningfully with Principal Investigators and industry stakeholders.

Qualifications:

- Advanced degree (PhD preferred) in Biotechnology, Chemical Engineering, Biochemistry, or a related field.
- Minimum 10–15 years of leadership experience within the Industrial Biotechnology sector.
- Proven track record in R&D strategy, innovation management, or technology commercialization at a regional or global level.
- Experience in managing large-scale research grants or complex R&D portfolios is highly prioritized.
