Job Description

Company Overview:

Our client is a F&B supply chain ecommerce platform. They are looking for products manager who owns both product decisions to enhance their supply chain system.

Job Description:

- Analyze and improve the purchasing process by identifying delays and inefficiencies.
- Automate procurement workflows, from demand forecasting to purchase order creation.
- Manage and monitor SKU-level profitability, including costs and selling prices.
- Implement initiatives to reduce waste and improve tracking, reporting, and e-commerce processes.

- Maintain product and supplier data and develop forecasting reports and dashboards.
- Work closely with Sales and Customer Service teams to improve margins through better cost, pricing, and waste management.

Job Requirements:

- More than 3 years of Product Management experience (or similar) with ownership of product delivery in supply chain, procurement, inventory management, or demand forecasting.
- Proven ability to transform manual business processes into automated solutions.
- Experience owning features end to end, from problem definition and requirements gathering to launch and performance measurement.
- Strong skills in writing clear requirements, collaborating with engineers, and validating delivered solutions.
- Data-driven approach with experience improving metrics such as margin, inventory, and waste.
- Comfortable working closely with operational teams and observing workflows firsthand to design effective solutions.
