Job Description

Job Descriptions

- Ensure effective implementation and compliance of QMS/FSMS and relevant certifications across all SSEA operations, in line with global policies, internal procedures, and regulatory requirements.
- Lead the regional rollout of digital QMS/FSMS solutions, including LIMS, SPC, real-time monitoring tools, and digital dashboards.
- Oversee data integrity, analytics capability, and digital maturity across sites, OEMs, and tollers.
- Drive adoption of innovative QFS technologies and global best practices to enhance efficiency and decision-making.
- Govern the regional crisis and product recall management framework, ensuring preparedness, cross-functional coordination, and timely escalation.
- Monitor regulatory developments, assess business impact, and ensure proactive compliance actions.

- Act as the regional representative to regulatory authorities, including participation in inspections and external engagements.
- Define and oversee the regional framework for OEM and toller QFS governance, including risk assessment, certification oversight, performance monitoring, and continuous improvement.
- Lead the annual OEM/toller audit program, including escalation management and corrective action governance.
- Lead regional QFS audits across factories, warehouses, OEMs, and tollers, ensuring robust follow-up and systemic improvement.

Job Requirements

- Minimum 10 years' experience in Food Safety and Quality Management.
- Minimum 5 years in leadership role within food manufacturing, food ingredients, edible oils, agribusiness, or related industries.
- Experience managing multi-site operations and leading cross-functional teams.
- Strong expertise in risk management, hazard analysis, vulnerability assessment, food defense, root cause analysis, and CAPA implementation.
- Demonstrated success in driving continuous improvement, quality projects, operational excellence, and performance management across manufacturing operations.
- Strong leadership and communicate effectively in English (written and spoken).
