Lead a Tokyo-based security assistance team that advises Japan-based clients operating overseas and supports clients traveling to Japan. You'll direct responses to complex cases and develop the team's ability to deliver timely, consistent advice across cultures and time zones.

Responsibilities

- Direct security risk advice, incident response and complex assistance cases, including evacuation coordination when required.
- Coordinate case planning with regional and global assistance, intelligence, medical and travel teams.
- Set objectives for the Japan Security Assistance team and support performance, development and succession planning.
- Maintain the Japan provider network and contribute to client briefings, consulting, training and service development.

Work Conditions

- Includes on-call coverage, occasional evening or weekend work and travel, sometimes at short notice.

Apply through CareerCross.

Required Skills

Required Qualifications

- Typically at least ten years in security operations, emergency operations or client security assistance, including deployment experience in challenging environments.
- Experience assessing client-specific risks and planning security assistance operations. Familiarity with the intelligence cycle and the global political and security landscape.
- The ability to analyze information under time pressure, work across cultures and explain complex advice to non-specialists in Japanese and English.

Preferred Qualifications

- Experience in crisis management, client presentations or media, account support or business development, or project management, consulting or training.
- Proficiency in additional languages.
