募集要項

Job Summary:

As an Entry-Level Recruitment Consultant based in our Tokyo office, you will support sourcing candidates in Japan for our clients. This is a great opportunity for someone who is eager to win, results-driven, and looking to develop a career in recruitment and the life sciences industries. Comprehensive training will be provided to help you succeed in candidate sourcing, relationship management, and recruitment processes.

Key Responsibilities:

- Candidate Sourcing:
 - o Proactively scout for candidates in the Cell and Gene Therapy (CGT) field through various channels such as cold-calling, referrals, and job applications.
 - o Inherit candidate contacts from existing company networks and databases.
- Candidate Relationship Building:

- o Build and maintain relationships with candidates through regular emails and online calls.
 - o Communicate job opportunities and match candidates to open roles.
 - Candidate Reports & Documentation:
 - o Prepare candidate summaries after initial meetings, gather CVs, and record interview performance.
 - o Assist in submitting candidate CVs to clients and registering profiles on client platforms.
 - Interview Coordination:
 - o Schedule interviews between candidates and clients, and help with interview preparation.
 - o Support the Business Development (BD) team in guiding candidates through the offer and onboarding processes.
 - Onboarding Support:
 - o Once a job offer is accepted, provide support for candidates through their resignation and onboarding process.

スキル・資格

Qualifications:

- No prior recruitment experience is required—training will be provided.
 - Strong willingness to win and a hunter mentality—you are proactive and driven to achieve goals.
 - An interest in the life sciences or healthcare industry is highly valued.
 - Strong communication and interpersonal skills.
 - High-level proficiency in Japanese is essential.
 - Self-motivated and eager to learn in a fast-paced environment.
