OVERVIEW OF POSITION

The Advertising and Promotion Specialist will be responsible for developing, managing, and optimizing advertising and promotional activities to enhance brand visibility and engagement. This role covers both online channels—such as Google Ads and social media ads—and offline campaigns, including print, out-of-home (OOH) and event promotions. The ideal candidate will combine creativity with strong analytical skills, possess bilingual fluency in English and Japanese, and have experience working within Japan's business and cultural environment. Success in this position requires close team collaboration to achieve shared goals and deliver impactful results.

As part of the Strategic Marketing Team within the Communications and Marketing Support —which also includes public relations, print, and web functions—this position works closely with the Strategic Marketing Director and the Web Contents Manager/Web Marketer to execute integrated campaigns. Serving an institution that attracts students from around 80 countries, the role plays a critical part in designing advertising strategies to reach a truly global audience in both English and Japanese.

PRIMARY RESPONSIBILITIES

- Plan, execute, and optimize advertising campaigns across print, digital, social media, broadcast, and out-of-home (OOH) channels to support TUJ's branding and enrollment goals.
- Develop and implement integrated advertising strategies, ensuring consistent branding and messaging across all media.
- Collaborate directly with departments and program directors to plan, coordinate, and execute advertising initiatives aligned with their specific goals and needs.
- Provide creative direction and input for advertising and promotional initiatives, including ad copywriting and visual concepts.
- · Coordinate the production of advertising materials such as ad banners, print ads, and promotional content.
- · Collaborate with internal teams and external agencies to execute promotional projects and campaigns.
- Negotiate with media outlets for ad placements, rates, and contracts.
- Manage article-based and school listing advertisements for online and offline platforms.
- Support budget planning, expense tracking, and payment processes.
- Prepare, review, and finalize contracts in coordination with external vendors and internal stakeholders.
- Conduct marketing research, analyze campaign data, and prepare performance reports to improve effectiveness.
- Utilize GA4 and other analytics tools to track and assess campaign performance.

- Organize and maintain advertising-related files and documentation.
- · Develop operational manuals and detailed project schedules to facilitate project execution and ensure timely delivery.
- Support the Marketing Strategy team and Communications and Marketing Support department with tasks and initiatives related to promotional activities and events.
- · Ensuring that TUJ advertisements are aligned with the main campus branding campaign and guidelines
- Making sure that the advertising vendors' work is efficient, budget-appropriate, and of high quality; if not, look for new and more suitable vendors.
